Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from Red River Settlement: Papers in the Canadian Archives Relating to the Pioneers To this third class belonged all those who reached the Forks with Macdonell on August 30, 1812. Selkirk, by the terms of his grant of Assiniboia, was under contract to engage a quota of servants for the fur trade of the Company. The separation between Company and Settlement, it will be seen, was not ultimately made by Macdonell until he was actually on the way to the Settlement. Even then the enclosed Return of the twenty-three men mentioned in the report to Selkirk is not at present to be found, though a list of eighteen is seen in Macdonell's handwriting on a stray sheet in the Macdonell Papers. Three of the others, we are told, were experienced men of the Company hired at Oxford House; one was an Indian mentioned by name; the other may possibly have been John McLeod, the young Scottish employee of the Company, whom Macdonell sought to secure for the Settlement, but who was sent by the Company...
