Good Meetings Much of a community's culture is showcased in meetings-the arena in which the most important decisions are made. In cooperative groups you can tell a lot about a group by observing a meeting. Community meetings tend to be a much more complex animal than business meetings in the mainstream culture because you are expected to work constructively with the energy in the room, not just the ideas. Savvy groups understand that you need to offer a variety of ways to engage (because no one format works best for all or in all situations) and ways to access emotional and intuitive wisdom as well as rational insight. Humans bring a menagerie of personalities and preferences to the table and it's an art learning how to make the most of it. In this bundle we've collected 21 of our best nuggets about Good Meetings, carefully extracted from the rich vein of community meeting (l)ore. This Digital Issue includes: 1. Community Meetings: Getting Off to a Good Start by Tree Bressen, #105 2. Agenda Planning: The Experienced Communitarian's Technique for Making Meetings Flow by Tree Bressen, #113 3.
